

ARUN GHOSH

Arun Ghosh

“A charismatic figure with a future”
(The Guardian)

Clarinet player Arun Ghosh was conceived in Calcutta, bred in Bolton, matured in Manchester and is now living in London. His musical vision and vocabulary reflects his rich geographical heritage.

Arun's Indo-Jazz Group plays original music of South Asian origin with a contemporary jazz attitude, rocking urban beats and the passion of punk. Sweet and timeless melodies give birth to soaring improvisations and raag explorations, driven by a heady mix of dub-reggae bass, tabla trickery and ferocious drum explosions.

Arun Ghosh released his debut album "Northern Namaste" on camoci records in 2008 to critical acclaim and the opening track on "Northern Namaste" entitled "Aurora" also appears on Gilles Peterson's compilation album "Brownswood Bubblers Three".

The band rocked the Southbank Centre at their debut gig at the London Jazz Festival in November 2007 and has since lit up the British jazz scene with intense and cathartic performances at clubs, festivals and melas in London and around the country.

Alongside his performance activity, Arun maintains a healthy composition and education workload, particularly in the world of theatre, in addition to collaborating with other musicians, writers, poets, filmmakers and dancers.

Press

“Ghosh is gently intense, quietly screaming.” (BBC Music)

“What is this fiery music and where does it come from?” (The Metro)

“Extraordinary charisma and musicianship and a consistently riveting compositional skill” (Jazzwise)

“An evening of music-making at once no-nonsense, thrilling and beautiful.” (The Daily Telegraph)

Dates

14.03. München - Unterfahrt

15.03. Berlin – A-Trane

16.03. Hamburg - Birdland

17.03. Dortmund – Domicile

18.03. Köln - Stadtgarten

20.03. Karlsruhe - Tollhaus

21.03. Passau – Cafe Museum

23.03. Linz - Oxymoron

24.03. Frankfurt - Brotfabrik

25.03. Mannheim - Feuerwache

26.03. Innsbruck - Treibhaus